

U2 is a rock band from Dublin formed in 1976. There are four members in the group: Bono (lead vocals and rhythm guitar), the Edge (lead guitar, keyboards, and backing vocals), Adam Clayton (bass guitar), and Larry Mullen Jr. (drums and percussion). They have won 22 Grammy Awards, more than any other band in the world. They sold more than 170 million records worldwide. Among their greatest hits are: „Sunday Bloody Sunday”, „New Year's Day”, „Bad”, „Pride (In the Name of Love)”, „With or Without You”, „One”, „Beautiful Day”, „I Still Haven't Found What I'm Looking For”. It is worth noticing that „New Year's Day” was inspired by Poland's Solidarity Movement and dedicated to its leader – Lech Wałęsa.

Enya, is an Irish singer, songwriter, musician and producer. She developed her own distinctive style with elements of Celtic, classical, church, and folk music. Enya has won several awards in her career, including seven World Music Awards and four Grammy Awards. It is estimated that she sold 75 million records worldwide. She was also nominated for the Oscar for "May It Be" written by her for The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring (2001). Her other famous songs include: „Orinoco Flow”, „Only Time”, „Caribbean blue”, „The Celts”.

The Cranberries are a rock band formed in Limerick in 1989. They became widely popular in the 1990s. The Cranberries have sold over 40 million records. On January 15 2018 their lead singer Dolores O'Riordan was found dead in a London hotel room. The band's greatest hits are: „Zombie”, „Dreams”, „Ode To My Family”, „When You're Gone”, „Animal Instinct”, „Just My Imagination”.

Sinéad O'Connor is a singer and songwriter. She became popular in the late 1980s with her debut album The Lion and the Cobra. Her worldwide success came in 1990 with a new arrangement of Prince's song "Nothing Compares 2 U". She is considered a bit controversial due to her strongly expressed views on institutional religion, women's rights, war, and child abuse. Her other most-known songs are: „Feel So Different”, „Thank You For Hearing”, „Troy”.

Thin Lizzy is a famous band formed in 1969 in Dublin which plays Celtic rock. It is the type of music which combines Celtic music and themes with rock music. Their worldwide hit is an adaptation of an Irish traditional song 'Whiskey in the jar'.

